

BOGA & ASSOCIATES

Press Release

Boga & Associates and its Managing Partner Genc Boga featured in “The Lawyer” magazine

The Lawyer, one of the main UK legal publishers has published on 9 December 2002 an article regarding Albanian legal market. We are proud to inform that Boga & Associates and its Managing Partner Genc Boga were featured in the article.

The article says that “indeed, the lure of Tirana proved too much for Genc Boga, the managing partner of one of Tirana's leading practices, Boga & Associates. Boga had studied in France and could have remained to practice as a lawyer in Paris, but opted to return home and now runs a 20-lawyer practice.

As with Allen & Overy, Boga's focus is commercial. His firm handles corporate, tax, licensing, mergers and acquisitions, construction and real estate issues. Unlike Allen & Overy, Boga also litigates, usually for banks. He has an impressive list of clients, including British Petroleum, Siemens and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and for the past three years his firm has operated in association with KPMG, for which Boga & Associates is a correspondent firm.

“The relationship exists to ensure that clients have full access to problem-solving in Albania” says Boga, emphasizing that his firm maintains risk management procedures in keeping with Western standards. This is despite the fact that there is no obligation per se in Albania for law firms to have risk management policies at all”.
